

A Green Flames

Manifesto

“Rebel for the Future”

Version 1.0.0-0 - 28.09

This document should be a fast explanation of what the “Green Flame” does, why it does that and how it does that. For a more in-depth explanation, we have our manifesto and other documents which you can find on <https://greenflame.earth/>

“Green Flame” is a non-institutional, non-partisan, interdisciplinary and international association of activists committed to build up a sustainable future. We are a so-called self-organized, “grassroots” movement which is decentralized.

We are activists from all over the world who want to fight for a sustainable future, which is a future where we still have something of our world. It's for bringing groups together from various different parts of the world and spectrum, without having them to unify with us, to work together.

Our mission

Our mission is to bring social change forward in our society. We want to bring together activists to form actions, discuss opinions and evaluate new strategies for the climate crisis we are facing. We are rebels because we can't accept anymore that it is not done enough against climate change.

We fight for a system change. The capitalist structures in which we are living need change. We need a degrowth which enables us to build a sustainable future without reign over people. We have anarcho-communist values, which does not exclude other ideas and visions.

Climate change is happening right now and we have to fight it. We fight for climate justice, so that people don't have to leave their countries because of the climate which is changing and so that animals and plants survive.

We fight for social justice. We are an antifascist, antiracist and feminist organization. We fight for the equality of all living beings regardless of their color, sex and religious identity.

- Why do we need another group? Why don't we use other structures?
- kosmopolitischer absatz

What do we do?

Through actions and civil disobedience we want to achieve that the politicians are finally facing the problem of the climate crisis, social instability and many more which are described in our manifesto.

We will also talk to, discuss and argue with many different people and do different types of actions (like critical mass, strikes, political discussions and more).

How do we work?

“Green Flame” is a decentralized, self-organized grassroots movement. You can work with us anonymously also.

We differentiate between voted members (which represent a certain group), active members (someone who participates in actions) and sympathizing members (someone who sympathizes with us). We work respectfully together and don't accept if someone disrespects our values.

How can you join us?

Organize yourself locally, nationally and globally. We have so-called “base groups” which are at the core of our action. To join our movement is possible for everyone which respects this manifesto.
